Martin T. Davis, who was brought locked up at the First precinct station shortly before noon today.

Early this morning the amount in-volved in the alleged irregular trans-actions of the two brothers was estimated at $100,000, but developments followed each other so closely during the day that late this afternoon it was estimated that $200,000 would probably be nearer the amount.

Dr. Wilkins and Mr. Sisson understood that the money was to be used in promoting building operations. The dif-ference or profit between the cost of material and the price which the buildings were sold for, he told them, he vould divide. Dr. Wilkins also said that Pavis had obtained money from other persons in Alexandria.

Had Seventy Cents.

Despite the fact that it is alleged that Davis has handled these vast sums of money for his clients recently, he had only 70 cents upon his person when arrested, after an exciting chase through the streets of Washington, by Detectives

"Yes, I have plenty of mo ey," said Davis lightly, as he was being photographed at Police Headquarters this orning. "Give me a checkbook and I'll write you a check for a million."

"On what bank?" he was asked. "On the Bank of Heaven-the strongest financial institution in the universe," came the reply. Davis would give the police no lucid answers to any question. He said that he could tell the police nothing until he was provided with a Bible and a hymn book. Davis' actions and his conversation did not appear rational, but the police were into the belief that they were af-

According to Mrs. McKeown's story, Davis represented to her that Thomas A. Owen, a contractor and builder, had under construction a large upartment house. He claimed to be Mr. Owen's legal adviser and wanted to raise some morey to carry on the building operations.

It was after midnight when Davis was finally brought to headquarters. The arrest was made after an exciting chase in a cab.

Davis lived with his brother, M. T.

Davis, secretary of the Potomac Build-Davis, it is claimed, represented to the other persons from whom he obtained money that he had deposited it in the Potomac Building and Loan Association, of which his brother is secretary. When he was placed under arrest last night a deposit book of the asociation made out in the name of Mrs. McKeown was found in his possession. The book showed a deposit of $2,500 on March 6, 1909.

Attorney Walter A, Johnson, who represents Mrs. Duncan, said that Davis had obtained about $5,00 from his client. Mrs. Duncan, he said, gave Davis money, bonds, and stocks amounting to $4,890 last September. After several efforts to get an accounting from him, David gave her a deposit book of the building association, it is alleged, showing that this amount had been deposited to her credit last January.

But One of Many.

The complaint of Mrs. Neilie Mc-Keown upon which the arrest of Davis, was made, is, apparently, but the first of a long series of complaints that upon worthless notes the attorney has obtained an amount which is variously estimated between $75,000 and $100,000. District Attorney Baker's office this morn ing was thronged with lawyers to lay before him notes said to have been given their clients for various sums am

All of the notes exhibited to Attorney Baker this morning were signed either by P. C. Wilson, L. C. Miller, or Thomas A. All day long persons filed into the District Attorney's office and Police Headquarters with stories about how John C. Davis had obtained money from them under various representations.

Case Is Tangled.

Davis, it was said, not only operated in Washington, but also got money from persons living in other cities. In just what manner Martin T. Davis is involved in the tangled affairs of his brother is not known as yet.

Attorneys Argue.

Q. A. Gordon argued the case to the ury for the prosecution. He agreed with Judge Miller that the State must prove conclusively that Mrs. Boyle, to be guilty of aiding and abetting in the kidnaping of Billy Whitla, must have been in Pennsylvania. Continuing, he said:

"The uncontradicted evidence in this case is that the defendant came to Sharon about Thanksgiving Day, 1908, and remained there with James Boyle until March 13 of this year. Boyle did not work during that time. The Whitlas are prominent, and it is reasonable to suppose that the attention of these defendants were attracted to these people, and little Billy.

"In order for James Boyle to commit this crime he must have the help of a woman to take care of the little fellow after he had oeen successful in getting the boy. This woman said on March 12 that she was going to Denver. Did they go to Denver? No they went directly to Cleveland. The next day they appeared at the apartment house of Mrs. Mills, in Cleveland.

"They wanted a place where there were no children. Why? Because they wanted a place where they could keep Billy Whitla safely. Ch.ldren will walk right in, while older people will rap, and then they could hide the little fellow in the closet. Now don't you see that the plan was concocted in Sharon, Mercer county, and she should be adjudged gullty of the crime of alding and abetting James H. Boyle."

Mr. Gordon's argument was most exhaustive and cleared up many points which Miller had left hazy.

The judge went over the evidence carefully, and instructed the jury as to the law bearing on the case, but gave them no hint as to what their finding should be. During the charge Judge Williams said the jury must not be governed by anything they have read in the newspapers.

Mrs. Boyle remained at the courthouse, and partook of her dinner. She is constantly attended by her brother. The woman is no longer the cool, indifferent adventuress. Her spirit seems broken by the appearance of her brother, whose ministrations have recalled to her her finer instincts. She is now nervous and pale, and the constant smile has at last come off.
